

In the Claims:

Claims 1 – 22 (Cancel)

23. (amended) A ~~system~~ process for translation on the Internet comprising: a plurality of translation methods where said translation methods include human translators and computer translation software for a plurality of languages, having a ratings system for said translators, and having a user access the system through an Internet connection method.

24. (new) The process according to claim 23 in which includes the steps of having real-time transaction.

25. (new) The process according to claim 23 in which includes the steps of having a plurality of advertisements on the system web site.

26. (new) The process according to claim 23 in which includes the steps of having an item translated.

27. (new) The process according to claim 26 in which said item is a document.

28. (new) The process according to claim 26 in which said item is a advertisement.

29. (new) The process according to claim 26 in which said item is a video.

30. (new) The process according to claim 26 in which said item is an audio message.

31. (new) The process according to claim 26 in which said item is an E-mail.

32. (new) The process according to claim 26 in which said item is an E-mail and said E-mail is forwarded to the recipient.

33. (new) The process according to claim 26 in which said item is a chat room.

34. (new) The process according to claim 23 which includes the step of having the system communicates to the user using a communication method.

35. (new) The process according to claim 34 where said communication method is E-mail.

36. (new) The process according to claim 34 where said communication method is the telephone.

37. (new) The process according to claim 34 where said communication method is a chat room.

38. (new) The process according to claim 14 where said communication method is a messenger system.

39. (new) The process according to claim 23 where said translation methods include professional and amateur translators.

40. (new) The process according to claim 23 including the step of notifying the human translators when an item is available for translation.

41. (new) The process according to claim 23 which includes the step of having the system point to another website.

42. (new) A system for translation on the Internet comprising: a plurality of translation methods where said translation methods include human translators and computer translation software; for a plurality of languages, having a ratings system for said translators, having a user access the system through an Internet connection method, having real-time transaction, having a plurality of advertisements on the system web site, having an item translated, having the translation methods include professional and amateur translators,

App. No. 10/604,254

and notifying the human translators when an item is available for translation.